

Susan Watson Holloway is currently the Executive Director of Delaware's Prescription Opioid Settlement Distribution Commission, Office of the Lieutenant Governor.

Susan has over 24 combined years of experience in public and non-profit sectors with a focus on health care policy and public administration, including serving at senior levels within the Delaware Department of Health and Social Services, Division of Substance Abuse and Mental Health.

As a champion of research and data analysis, Susan began her career in health services research and public health as a policy and legislative analyst. She assisted senior public health officials in the executive and legislative branches of government with the implementation of public health strategies designed to reduce health disparities and increase access to quality services related to physical health, behavioral health, and the social determinants of health.

Susan has worked with provider agencies, private hospitals, and public health clinics to identify and develop primary care resources for individuals who are uninsured or under-insured with behavioral health and physical health needs. She has collaborated with public housing agencies, property owners and private developers to direct the planning, implementation, and monitoring of housing placement options for individuals transitioning from acute care to community-based care and various other associated placements on the housing continuum. Susan has worked extensively to establish, implement, and support peer services programs that include training, credentialing, and professional development.

Susan established public-private partnerships with labor and workforce development agencies to develop varied, meaningful, and sustainable employment opportunities for individuals with mental health and substance use disorders. Susan has a Master of Public Administration from the University of Delaware, Master of Science in Human Resources Development from Villanova University and Organizational Leadership at the Doctoral Level from Vanderbilt University.